Dear Vivi,

Good luck in the future, and be good. Stay your sweet self and you'll always be popular. Too bad I can't take some of my own advice.

Good luck.

Glynnis. "61."

Dear Vivi,

Be good - study hard -
and have a swell time -
Please watch where you step with those wicked heels.

I wish I were always valued your friendship and
I know I shall.
Please stay
as sweet as you are,
Love, Vivian

Best of good wishes,
Love, and luck to a real sweet girl in my class.
and don't do anything to hurt yourself. Love + stuff.

Foreword

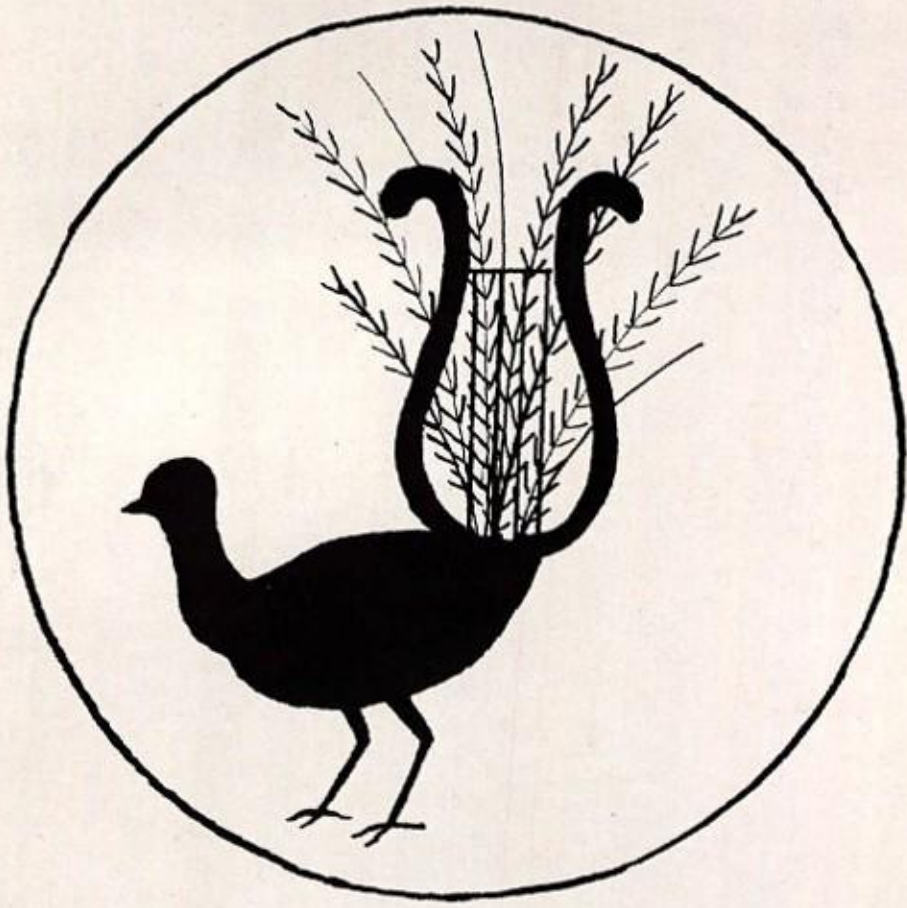

Our high school education, like a musical composition, is a structure of many facets. From the time of our entrance into seventh grade, until we emerge as seniors, we are constantly building this structure with the knowledge and new experiences we gain. Each educational experience then becomes a new note to be added to the gradually emerging melody. Throughout this Colophon, music is represented in the many aspects of school life. Academics, activities, and sports each add a different tone of harmony to the music, which is culminated by the final performance of the composition.

Therefore, with the theme of music, the Senior Class, as it prepares to take its final bow, presents this Colophon as a record of its achievements.

Academics

In the still air the music lies unheard;
In the rough marble beauty lies unseen;
To wake the music and the beauty needs
The master's touch, the sculptor's chisel keen.

School Board

Students of Wyomissing Schools have been most fortunate in having a progressive and cooperative School Board. Comprised of five elected citizens of the community, the members have given devotedly of their time to the education and welfare of Wyomissing's youth. The School Board this year performed a great service by giving its full cooperation and sponsorship to the Outdoor Education Program.

Present members of the School Board are: Mr. Donald Charlton, president; Mr. John S. McConaghy, vice-president; Mrs. J. Richard Kitzmiller, secretary; Mrs. W. Raymond McGonigle, assistant secretary; Mr. John W. Bowman, treasurer; and Mr. Llewellyn R. Bingaman, the appointed solicitor. Within the Board there are four committees: one giving special attention to Buildings and Grounds, one to Finance, one to Teachers, and one to Health and Welfare. At monthly meetings, the Board and Mr. Rank discuss the administration of finances, the determination of school policy, and other facts pertinent to an efficient educational system.

FIRST ROW—Mr. S. Olson, Mrs. R. Schatz, Mrs. N. Hill, Mr. H. Westkott, Mrs. K. Meinig, Mr. W. Breiting, Mr. G. Smith. SECOND ROW—Mr. W. Rosenberger, Mr. R. DeWitt, Mrs. R. Peters, Mr. J. Weber, Mr. W. Coblentz, Mr. E. Hohl, Mrs. W. Fahrenholt.

Parent Teachers' Association

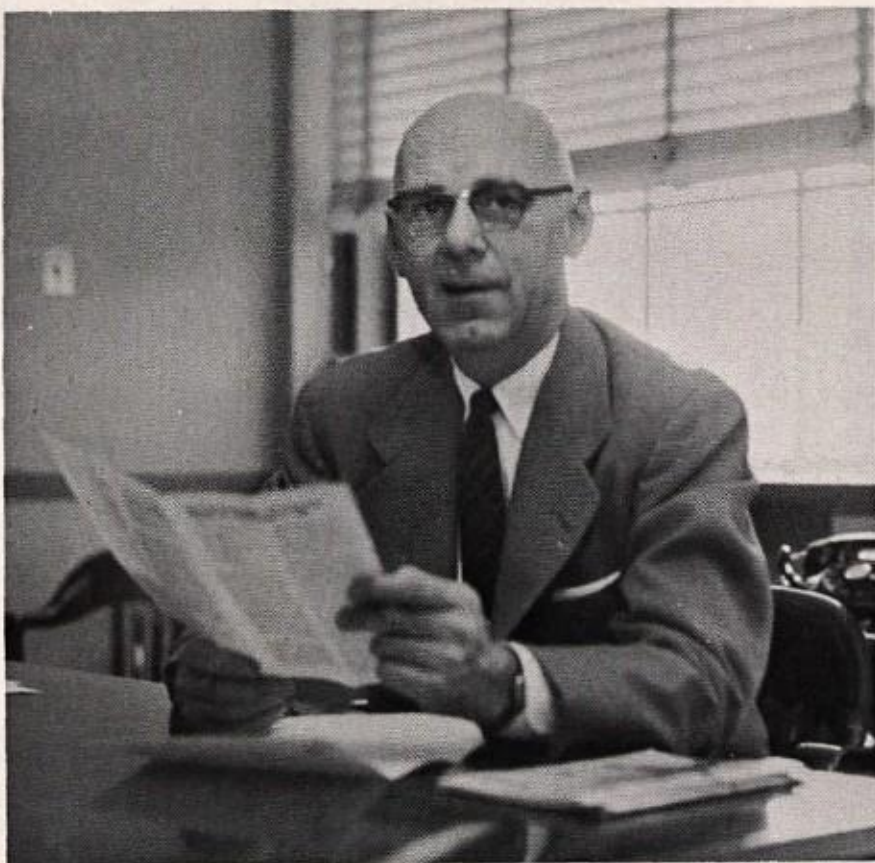

What could more adequately describe the purpose of the Parent Teachers' Association than its own theme: "The Child — His Home, His School, His Community"? Wyomissing's PTA is indeed dedicated toward that end with its program formulated to promote and improve all relations between the children and their home, school, church, and community. Congeniality and dedication are the keynotes of the organization's policy.

One of the specific functions of our PTA has been to provide our schools with some needed "extras" by sponsoring money-raising projects. Last fall they devoted their October meeting to a discussion of the proposed new recreation facilities for the borough.

Officers of the organization are: Mr. Hans Westkott, president; Mrs. Robert J. Schatz, first vice-president; Mrs. William McShane, second vice-president; Mr. William L. Rosenberger, treasurer; Mrs. Richard C. Peters, secretary; Mr. Earl W. Hohl, grade school representative; and Mr. Randolph A. DeWitt, high school representative.

Administration

Excellence in administration is the result of carefully chosen personnel who are competent in their profession. Such men are Mr. Allen Rank, the supervising principal, and Mr. B. Henry Shafer, the high school administrator.

Mr. Rank, long-standing key-man in the slot position, received his education at Princeton, Harvard, and Columbia. He also actively participates in numerous youth organizations including the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association, the Y.M.C.A., and the Berks County High School Athletic Association.

Mr. Shafer, a comparative newcomer to the borough, joined the local schools in 1954. He received his education at Susquehanna and Columbia Universities, and is now completing work on his doctorate at the University of Maryland. Since arriving, he has used his teaching experience by serving on the faculty as senior guidance counselor and problems of democracy instructor.

Aiding Mr. Rank, Mr. Shafer, and the students, in every possible way, is Miss Jeanne Albright, the office secretary-receptionist. Mrs. Nancy Troutman controls the treasury as school bookkeeper.

"Efficiency is our motto."

"Habla espanol?"

In the subjunctive mood.

Languages

Among our educational advantages at Wyomissing High are the modern languages, French and Spanish, along with ancient Latin.

On the fourth grade level, Mrs. Yvonne Millet introduces spoken French. This course is continued through the eighth grade where it, then elective, becomes more advanced. In senior high, Mrs. Madeline Knipe teaches the rudiments of the French language to the eleventh grade students. The senior French pupils read fables and stories concerning French history, interspersed with grammatical drill.

Taught by Mrs. Knipe, the first year Spanish students begin to master the language of our neighbors "south of the border". The second year Spanish students translate old Spanish fables, learn some ancient Spanish history, and meet new grammar and verb constructions.

Ninth grade brings the formidable challenge of Latin under the direction of Mrs. Florence Schrack. Noun cases and verb tenses confront the eager freshmen, while the sophomores struggle with advanced grammar and Roman mythology. For those with any spirit remaining, the combined third and fourth year class studies the Catilinian conspiracy by Cicero or the Aeneid by Virgil.

"Comment vous appelez-vous?"

Going over the "greybooks".

English

English is probably one of the most important subjects at Wyomissing, for its skillful use is a tremendous asset in any field. Our junior high English teachers are Mrs. Helen Getz, Mrs. Florence Schrack, and Mr. Charles Goodling. Mr. Russell Milford is the instructor in the senior high grades.

In seventh through eleventh grades, students submit ten book reports annually. Junior high students are drilled on spelling, grammar, and composition, and study literature in short stories and plays.

In tenth and eleventh grades, the students use the Reader's Digest as an aid in vocabulary study; sophomores study general literature with a unit on Julius Caesar, juniors concentrate on American literature, and seniors devote their time to English literature.

Because it is required for graduation, the seniors write an Investigative Theme on a literary topic. Friday themes also give practice in various types of composition and style.

This is how you do it.

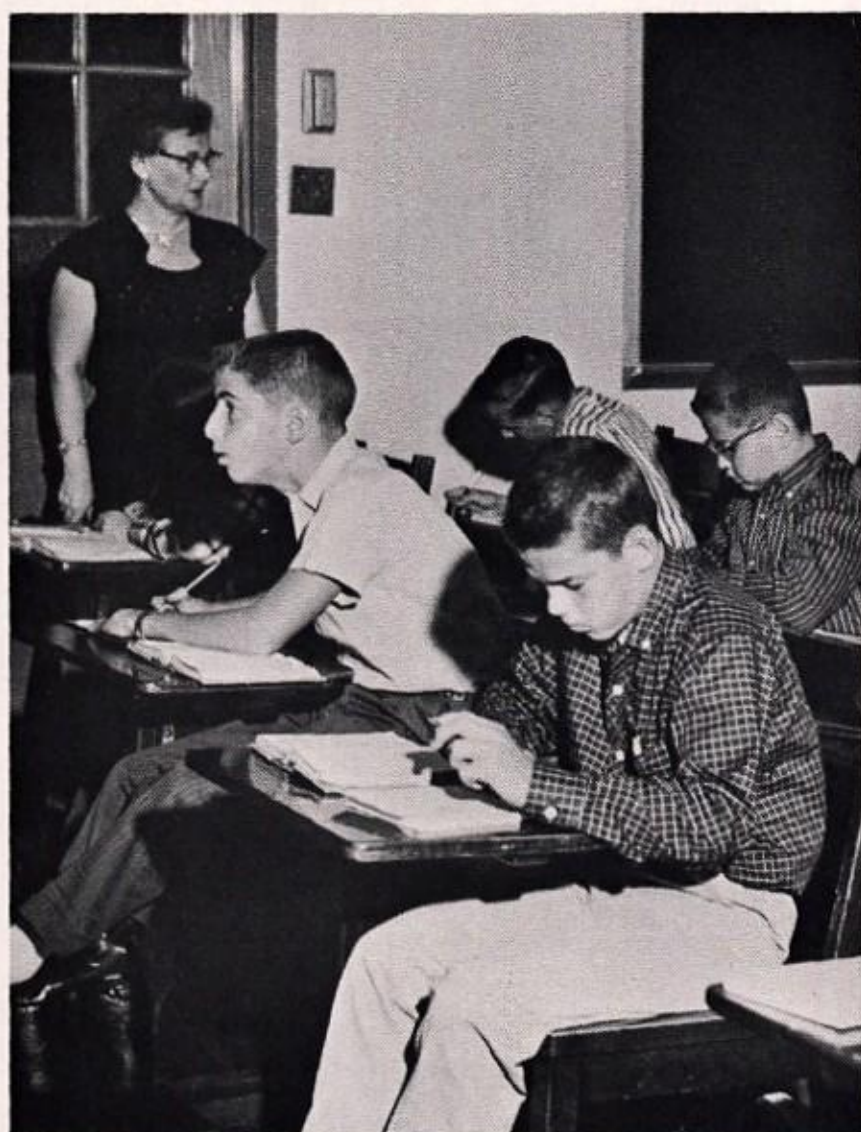

"Do you agree?"

Mathematics

Behind closed doors.

In order to give each student a sufficient background for college entrance, Wyomissing offers a varied program in mathematics.

Junior high students in the seventh and eighth grades are introduced to high school math by Miss Thelma V. Brunner. In ninth grade the pupils are confronted with literal problems and the well-known "Miss Brunner's Binomials".

Mr. Henry Y. Brubaker takes over in tenth grade with second year algebra. In plane geometry the juniors carefully consider the theorems and axioms which are applicable to problems involving triangles and circles.

Taught by Mr. Brubaker, seniors in the scientific course study trigonometry and solid geometry. These students are given the opportunity to elect a two period per week advanced math course which is conducted by Mr. Clarence Weik. Mr. Brubaker has charge of the senior review math course during the first semester.

Surprise quiz.

Social Sciences

"We'll fight the Civil War in five minutes."

"Nine times out of ten . . ."

Wyomissing High offers to its students varied Social Studies courses with Mr. John Reitz and Mr. Charles Goodling teaching the junior high pupils and Mr. Charles Gebensleben and Mr. B. Henry Shafer instructing the senior high.

In seventh grade, Mr. Reitz introduces the students to basic geography and history. The eighth grade advances to American history taught by Mr. Reitz and geography of the United States and other countries under the direction of Mr. Goodling. Mr. Gebensleben and Mr. Reitz share the teaching of the ninth grade civics classes.

On the senior high level, Social Studies becomes more specialized. Here the students examine their subject matter more thoroughly. The tenth grade receives world history and the eleventh grade, American history, both of which are taught by Mr. G. Once a student becomes a senior, Mr. Shafer's Problems of Democracy classes prevail. Our democratic form of government is discussed on the local, state, and federal levels.

Will it work?

Sciences

In its science department, Wyomissing High provides excellent opportunities and facilities for studying the sciences.

The seventh, eighth, and ninth grades are taught general science courses, under the instruction of Mr. Randolph DeWitt and Mr. Clarence Weik. Here the pupils learn about the human body, matter, energy, and the importance of industry.

Mr. Jesse Sheetz teaches the tenth grade its first laboratory science, biology. The students are confronted with the dissection of worms, clams, fish, and starfish.

In physics, Mr. DeWitt stresses five major topics: light, sound, heat, mechanics, and electricity. The eleventh grade students can often be seen struggling over difficult physics experiments.

For the seniors who want a science without emphasis on mathematics, a senior science course is offered, under the direction of Mr. Weik.

In the field of chemistry, Mr. Sheetz conducts the senior classes. Twice a week these seniors have a "lab" period where they apply various chemical principles.

Mr. Weik's Wizards.

"Isn't that right?"

Psychology and Sociology

Psychology and sociology, offered to seniors, are definite assets to our curriculum. Taught by Mrs. Madeline Knipe, this course is conducted in a circle formation instead of the usual formal setting.

Psychology is the science of the mind. This subject embraces the why's and wherefore's of idiosyncrasies, emotions, habits, desires, and intellect. Psychology probes for the reasons behind the basic qualities of personality, and in doing so, helps one to understand himself. The emphasis in this course is on "you" as an individual.

Sociology explains more about the social and physical environment and how they change our lives. The emphasis here is on the interplay between the student and his surroundings. He examines his heredity and environment and learns how to live in society. Pupils examine their culture heritage — the importance of culture heritage, the power of custom, and how and why culture changes.

Delinquents.

Home Economics

Helping hand.

The Home Economics course presents numerous opportunities to excel in quite a few fascinating fields. Advised and directed by Mrs. Ruth Wagner, the seventh grade students explore the various facets of nutrition, sewing, good grooming, and cooking. The eighth grade concentrates on knitting, child care, advanced sewing, and costume design. For one semester, the ninth grade schedule is completely reversed. The mysteries of cooking are introduced to the boys while the doors of the shop department are thrown open to the girls. On the senior high level, the Home Economics course becomes a specialty, depending on the student's abilities and particular interests.

Home Economics prepares the student for the future in many ways. In the fields of sewing, nutrition, and interior decoration, many girls discover vocations for study at college. "Mrs. Wagner's workshop" is always the scene of much activity for girls in every class.

Industrial Arts

Mr. Shirk and apprentice.

The Industrial Arts Department, directed by Mr. D. C. Shirk, is composed of two main branches, woodworking and drafting.

The junior high boys take three periods of woodworking per week in seventh grade, two in eighth, and one in ninth. The senior high elective students take from one to five periods per week. This class acquaints the students with tools, materials, and their practical use. It gives the boys an idea of how industries operate and trains them in various skills so that they may perform useful jobs around the house.

The other segment of Industrial Arts is drafting, equally as important as woodworking. Here the students learn how to make and interpret working drawings, "the language of industry". The eighth grade boys take one period of drafting per week and the ninth grade boys take two periods. There are also elective students from senior high. This course is, indeed, a vital part in any boy's education.

Business Education

"ASDF; LKJ" and so goes the first year typing class drill. Under the direction of Mr. Charles Goodling, students learn typing, shorthand, and briefhand. Wyomissing High School is one of the four schools in the state offering briefhand, a useful course which is new this year. Typing is compulsory in the eighth grade and again in the tenth. Any student who desires an additional third or fourth year may take it in his junior or senior year. Shorthand is completed in a two year course.

In addition to the previously mentioned courses, students may learn how to operate the mimeograph and ditto machines. The publishing of the school's newspaper, under the guidance of Mr. Goodling, requires the knowledge of many of these skills.

Not only do the students and faculty use the services of this department, but also clubs and organizations find it essential to their activities. Nearly all school functions necessitate assistance from the Business Education Department.

Now is the time . . .

Music

The Music Department, directed by Mr. Robert Emery, provides an outlet for students to show their musical talents. In addition to singing, the seventh grade learns the instruments of the orchestra, while in eighth grade, the students learn about the famous composers. Ninth grade students go into four-part harmony to prepare them for chorus in senior high.

During the school year, the music department presents two shows: the Christmas Candlelight Service and the Night of Music.

Christmas Program Rehearsal.

"Listen to the Mockingbirds."

Art

The Art Department is a center of busy activity throughout the entire school year. Under the watchful eyes of Mrs. Eleanore L. Kains, temporarily assisted by Miss Helen Marie Printz, students are encouraged to do creative work. Making diaramas, working with metal and linoleum, and illustrating music in three dimension are the various mediums in which the pupils gain experience.

While participating in the Outdoor Education Program, junior high students made free-hand drawings of nature at its best.

Expert advice.

Ingenuity counts.

Library

Here in this place of study and research, the students compile reports, work on investigations, and seek new books to read. A wide range of magazines and newspapers keeps both the faculty and student body well-informed on current events, latest scientific progress, and even the newest fashion styles.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Heffner, the librarian, the seventh grade is instructed in a guidance course, which provides the knowledge for efficient use of the library facilities.

Reference work.

Learning the use of the library.

Photography

Throughout the school year, students see fellow classmates with cameras at various school activities and sports events. These "shutterbugs" are members of the three year old photography class, directed by Mr. D. C. Shirk. The students study different types of cameras from the simple box to the complex press type. The members of the class not only take their own pictures but also learn how to develop, print, and enlarge them.

"This is an old folding Kodak."

Handle With Care.

"Jump it up."

Physical Education

"Just what is physical education?" This question may seem very easy to answer by saying "learning and participating in sports", but at Wyomissing High School this course, or "gym", is something more. Taught by Miss Doris Ganter and Mr. Bernard Allison, this branch involves activities which are mentally stimulating and skills that will be useful in the future.

Both girls and boys have a chance to participate in extracurricular activities through intramurals and bowling.

Be an individual!

Hygiene

In hygiene, under the instruction of Miss Doris Ganter and Mr. Bernard Allison, pupils meet once a week to discuss their health, personalities, and other related qualities.

Miss Ganter teaches the junior high girls anatomy, body changes, and good grooming habits. The senior high girls discuss hygiene and marriage problems. Mr. Allison instructs the boys in personal relations with emphasis on personality. This year he also introduced the fundamentals of survival.

Fascination.

Driver Training

This year Mr. D. C. Shirk introduced a new idea into the tenth grade driver training course, the "horror book", or a notebook of accident clippings designed to impress the students with the terrible results of careless driving. The prospective drivers see movies, receive pamphlets, and listen to various lectures.

These once-a-week classes are supplemented by road training under the supervision of the West Lawn Motor Company.

Custodians

Wyomissing enjoys, perhaps, one of the most beautiful campuses and schools in the area. For this, a vote of thanks should go to the custodians, George Goddard, George Rider, George Angstadt, Jr., Paul Young, Paul Staudt, and Paul Linderman. The former three keep the classrooms, halls, and auditorium sanitary while the latter are responsible for the well-trimmed bushes and groomed campus.

The men are always ready to aid any student who needs help in opening a recalcitrant locker.

After the battle.

Cafeteria

Every day at 11:30 and again at 12:15, the monitors lead columns of hungry students to the cafeteria. Previously managed by Mrs. Wagner, the dietician, our cafeteria is now under the supervision of Mr. Melvin Arnold, the food service manager. He is assisted by Mrs. Angela Ashcroft and Mrs. Angela Bauscher.

Behind the scenes several upperclassmen earn their daily lunches by efficiently serving, cashiering, and dishwashing.

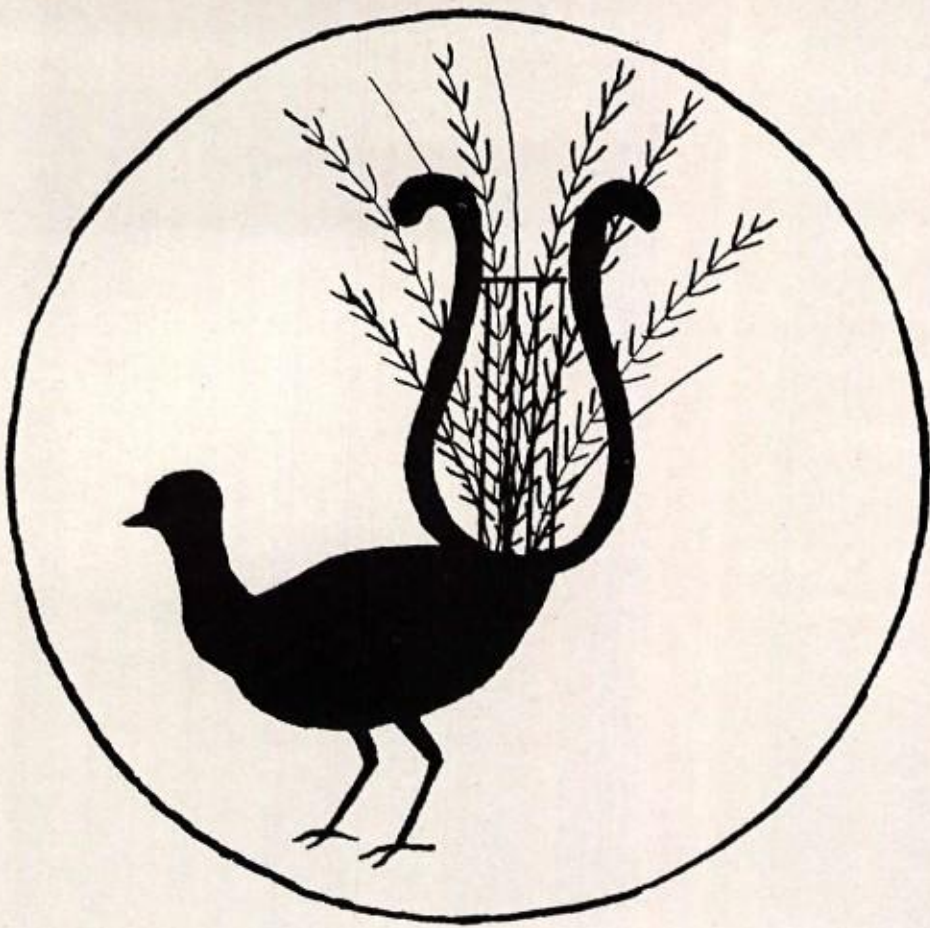

Chief Cooks.

Medical Staff

Wyomissing has at its disposal when needed a capable medical staff. This includes Mrs. Annie Knappenberger, Dr. Leonard Woodring, and Dr. Arthur Jones. Mrs. Knappenberger, the nurse, can be found in the infirmary ready to help any student who feels ill. Dr. Woodring comes to the school frequently to deliver the Mantoux test for tuberculosis and give physical examinations to all students. Dr. Jones regularly visits the school to inspect teeth. Every student is also given a sight and hearing test.

This won't hurt.

At the top of the ladder of school activities rests the Student Co-operative Council, better known to the students as the "Co-op." In order to "promote and maintain worthy student activities" and "to advance the general welfare of the school," the Co-op has weekly Wednesday afternoon meetings with Jeff Keeler presiding. Here school problems and new ideas are discussed by homeroom representatives.

One of the most important steps taken this year was the inauguration of the award system upon which a committee had been working for more than a year. Under this system students accumulate points for their activities and receive awards according to their number of points.

As the leading organization in the school, the Co-op, under its executive committee and advisor, Miss Brunner, has had a profitable and influential year.

Colophon Staff

The month of May, 1958, saw the newly elected officers of the 1959 Colophon eagerly gathering their ideas for the theme of the yearbook. After "Music" was chosen as the topic, the editors, with the help of Mr. Milford and Mr. Goodling, assembled their nebulous notions and drew up the first dummy. This was the beginning of the 1959 Colophon.

The officers of the Yearbook were chosen by the class. Elected to the several offices were: Jane Sisk, editor; Dave Kozloff, business manager; and Pat Handwerk, treasurer. Appointed were: Susie Kline, assistant editor; Linda Lerch, academics; Kathy Templin and Dick Troy, activities; Mary Trexler and Phil Brumbach, sports; Susan Saylor, underclassmen; Ann Homer, art; Mary Helen Houck and Gary Wilkinson, seniors; Sandy Shanfelder, typing; and Martin Reichert, photography. Mr. Shirk assisted in the photography department.

When June, 1959, finally came to Wyomissing High, the seniors on the Colophon Staff had every right to feel a true sense of happy accomplishment.

Y-Teens

Y-Teen Cabinet.

Y-Teens, a division of the Young Women's Christian Association, is the largest all-girl service organization of the senior high school. Tenth through twelfth grade girls meet every other Thursday during the school year.

The club was headed by Linda Lerch and supervised by Mrs. Albert Wagner. Officers for the year were: Anita Schmehl, vice-president; Marcia Coblentz, second vice-president; Martha Glosser, secretary; and Alice Knox, treasurer.

Making afghans for Asia was a service project. With the Hi-Y the Interclub Dance, Western Night, and Sports Night were held. The Mother-Daughter Tea, fashion show, and W.P.A. Dance were all part of an interesting year for the Y-Teens. The club activities were ended with the election of officers and the annual banquet.

Hi-Y

As the oldest continuous charter member of the Hi-Y Fellowship of the Pennsylvania Y.M.C.A., the Wyomissing Hi-Y Club, 1958-59 edition, eagerly looked forward to its 35th anniversary year.

The officers for the year were: Walter Hangen, president; Geoffrey Stoudt, vice-president; Gary Wilkinson, treasurer; and Dick Troy, secretary. Mr. Jesse Sheetz served as advisor for the group.

In September, the club officially began by initiating the new sophomore members. On November 22, the Hi-Y with the Y-Teens presented the 1958 Interclub, "La Neige Enchantee."

The remainder of the school year saw the Wyomissing Hi-Y present a new basketball scoreboard to the school and end its year with a special 35th anniversary banquet.

Hi-Y-Teen Service Award

To one senior girl and boy each year the Hi-Y-Teen Service Award is presented. This is in recognition of the most outstanding seniors for their record of service to the school.

All the seniors in the upper half of the class are eligible for election. Leadership ability, service record, and school spirit are other qualifications one must possess in order to be elected. In March the sophomores and juniors of the Hi-Y and Y-Teens elect the students to receive this honor.

This year Linda Lerch and Gary Wilkinson were the recipients of the Hi-Y-Teen Service Award.

National Honor Society

Organizing the National Honor Society.

The Wyomissing High chapter of the National Honor Society is one of the charter members of the organization. Membership in the Society has long been regarded as a true symbol of secondary school achievement.

To be eligible for election, a student must be either a junior or a senior, and in the first quartile of his class. He must also possess the qualities of citizenship, scholarship, leadership, and service.

Selection for membership is made by the faculty at the beginning of the third quarter and includes fifteen per cent of the senior class and ten per cent of the junior class.

The second year members of the Society were Patricia Handwerk, Susan Kline, Diane Sternbergh, Mary Trexler, and Richard Troy. The seniors selected this year were Jane Sisk, David Kozloff, and Mary Helen Houck. The students elected from the junior class were Ross Wademan, William Laubach, Geoffrey Stoudt, John Meharg, Henry Koch, John Coburn, and Suzanne Reinsel.

Foreign Students

For the fourth consecutive year, Wyomissing High again participated in the New York Herald Tribune Forum's foreign student program. This year, in early January, the high school played host for two weeks to two students, a boy and a girl, both seventeen years old.

The girl, Miss Nadia Domian, was from Beirut, Lebanon. During her visit in Wyomissing, she stayed with Susie Saylor and her parents. The boy, Hasan Gucluyildiz, from Bursa, Turkey, boarded with Susie Kline and her family.

During their two week stay, Nadia and Hasan attended regular classes and visited others that interested them. Both students participated in discussions of American, Turkish, and Lebanese customs and problems. They also attended school extra-curricular activities.

At the end of their stay in Wyomissing, the two visitors were presented with gifts from the various student organizations at an assembly in their honor.

Outdoor Education Program

September of 1958 saw the inception of a new type of educational system in the Wyomissing Junior High. The students in the seventh through ninth grades took part in an outdoor education program which was held at Camp Conrad Weiser.

For one week, the students lived and learned in the outdoors. Assisted by student teachers from Kutztown State Teachers College, the junior high faculty lived with the students and became better acquainted with them.

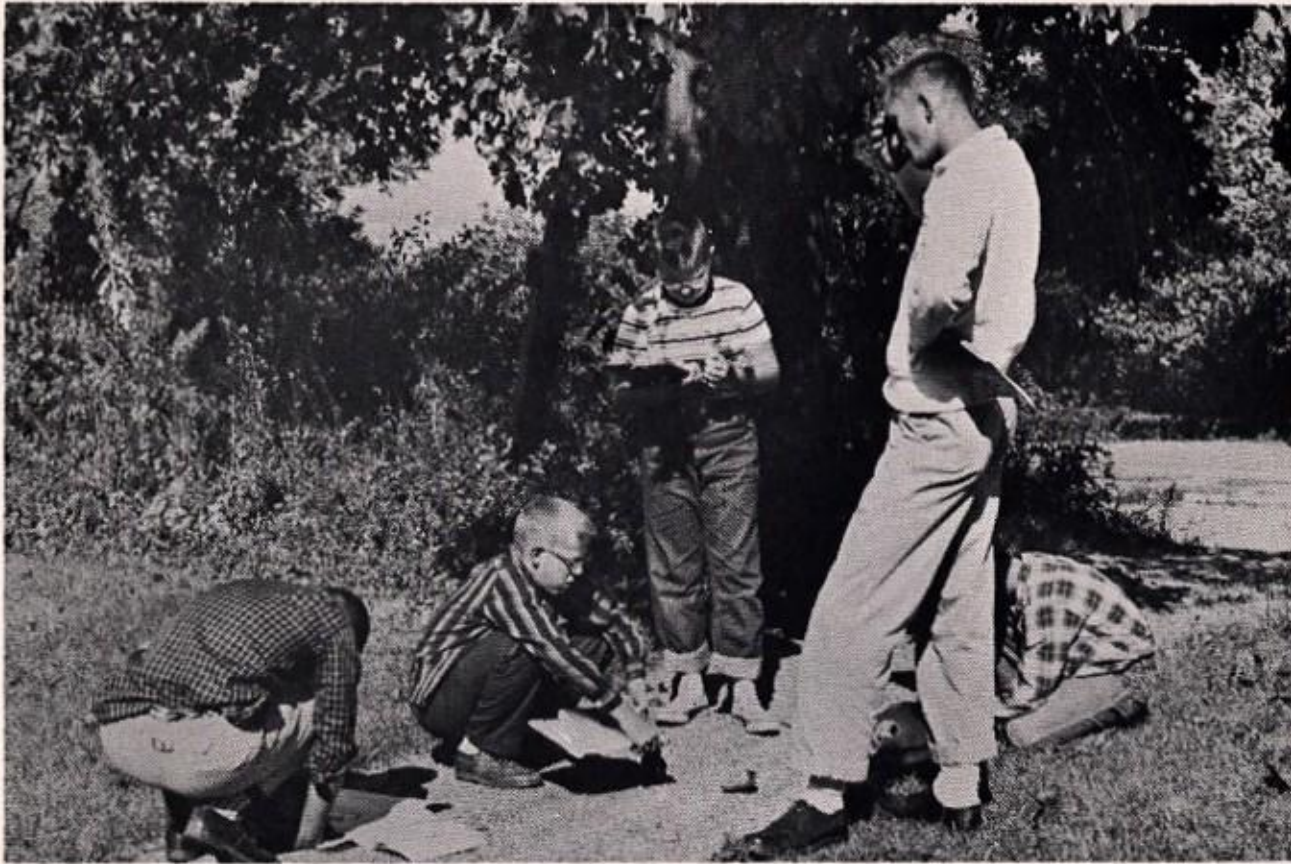

The classes were devoted mostly to the application of nature to the particular subject. In the evening, programs of entertainment and education were presented.

In Wyomissing, the first step in the outdoor education program had been planned over the past year as an experiment. Much preparation had been made for the program by the school faculty, administration, and parents. P.T.A. meetings were devoted to the discussion of the many problems involved and finally, it was decided that September would be the month for its inauguration.

Wholehearted approval was the reaction of the parents, and the students in the seventh, eighth, and ninth grades eagerly awaited the week of outdoor education.

Sembower Oratorical Contest

Each year in remembrance of Guy Knowlton Sembower, Jr., the Sembower Oratorical Contest is held. To increase farther the students' power of reasoning and confidence in public speaking, it is required that the contestants write, memorize, and deliver their own speeches, which are judged by a group of teachers on the subject matter, the literary style, and oratorical delivery. All contestants submitted their written essays to Mr. Milford in late January and before the assembly six people were chosen as the final orators. These were: Sally Levan, who spoke on "Adam to Atom", concerning propaganda; Carroll Conner, on "A Fear Stricken World"; Sheila Finn, on "Segregation"; Geoffrey Stoudt, on "You as an Individual"; Henry Koch, on "What Men Live By, the Ten Commandments"; and John Andrews, on "Three American Myths — Science, Christianity, and Civilization".

First Prize — "Individualism."

With several rehearsals and some advice, the candidates prepared themselves for the mid-February assembly. The judges, Mrs. Heffner, Mrs. Getz, and Mr. Goodling, selected Geoffrey Stoudt as the first place winner, Carroll Conner, second place, and Sally Levan, third.

FIRST ROW—Mr. Gebensleben, P. Handwerk, J. Coburn, D. Sternbergh, J. McConaghy, J. Andrews. SECOND ROW—R. Troy, H. Bunnell.

Debate Team

Arguing the pros and cons of the American educational system was the primary object for the debate team this year.

Under the mentorship of Mr. Gebensleben, the junior and senior members of the club prepared their ideas on the topic and wrote four-minute talks. During the latter part of February, the members presented their views on education in assemblies at Wyomissing, Governor Mifflin, and Wilson High Schools. These debate assemblies offered ideal opportunities for the proper presentation of a vital subject. Through the speeches of the debate team members and the ensuing discussions, which were opened to the floor, many views and problems were thoroughly investigated, improved upon, or challenged.

As it was last year, this year's debates were not divided into pro and con arguments. Rather, each member presented his own opinions; consequently, there was much more room for discussion as various aspects of the topic could be presented.

The members of the club this year were Diane Sternbergh, Dick Troy, Harold Bunnell, Pat Handwerk, Joci Coburn, John McConaghy, Geof Stoudt, Henry Koch, and John Andrews.

Junior Town Meeting

"Is this our next topic?"

As a means to understand the views on various national and local issues at stake, the Junior Town Meeting meets every Monday evening in the cafeteria. With a panel of pro and con speakers, the members gain information on the subject at hand and are given the opportunity to express their opinions in a following discussion period.

Diane Sternbergh is the president of the organization with the executive committee aiding her in the planning. This committee consists of Gary Wilkinson, vice-president; Caryl Libby, secretary; and Pat Handwerk, treasurer.

At the annual award assembly a JTM Award is presented to a senior. The purpose is to honor that senior who has given much service to the school but who has received previously little or no recognition. A nominating committee prepares the nominations and the entire club selects the student to be so honored.

Finally, the year is closed with a picnic planned by the officers for the coming year and held at the Stone House.

Chieftain Staff

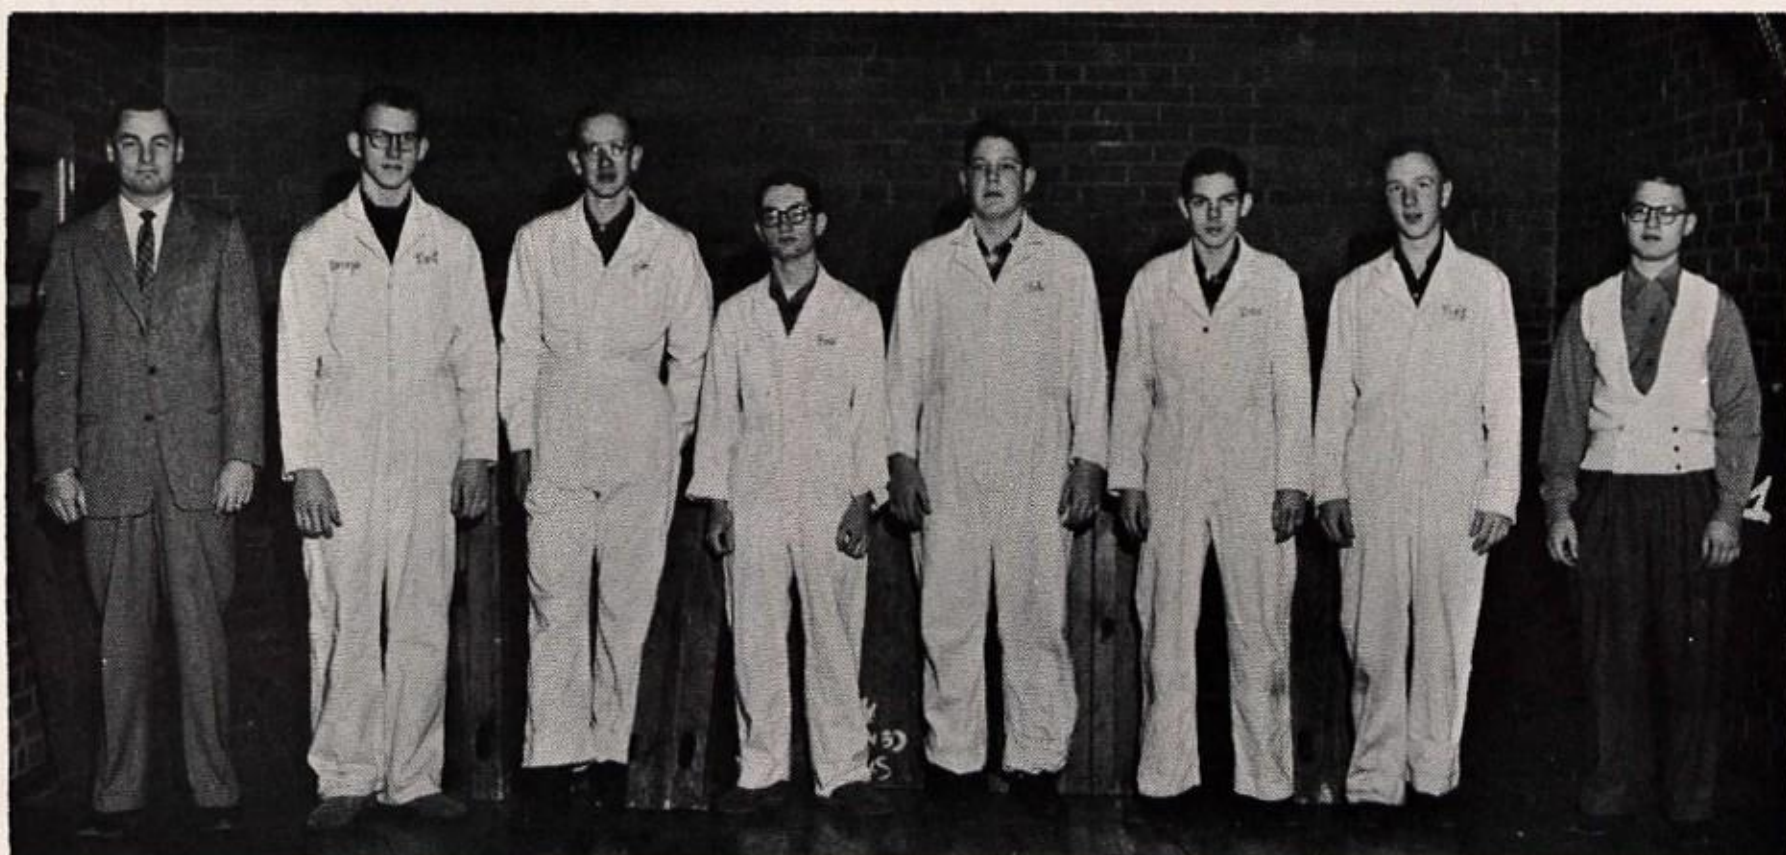

This year, under the direction of Mrs. Florence Schrack, the school newspaper, The Chieftain, was again published. With Susie Kline and Sandy Shanfelder as co-editors the staff issued its paper monthly.

Soon after the beginning of school The Chieftain subscription drive got under way with hall posters and announcements. Before long the first issue was ready to be delivered to homerooms. Teamwork maintained the previously set standards of high quality. Cartoons and other art work, articles on all school and borough activities of interest, and editorials are all found within one issue.

Aside from the many reporters who contribute articles on various subjects, there is the editorial staff which includes Kitty Templin, front page; Janet Scholes, art; Susie Schad, club; Jean Beaver, social; Mary Trexler, features; Caryl Libby, business manager; Nancy Baker, publicity; Martha Glosser and Wally Hangen, sports; Marcia Coblentz, literary; and Mary Helen Houck, typing. Mr. Goodling served as typing advisor for the staff.

Stage Crew

Backstage life.

Up with the risers!

Here are the boys who work "behind the scenes" at all the performances presented by Wyomissing High and various civic groups. The boys labor not only during the performance but also preceding rehearsals building scenery and later assuming the tedious task of cleaning up.

This year there were two changes encountered by the Stage Crew. Mr. DeWitt volunteered to be the new advisor, and Co-operative purchased uniforms for the members.

The majority of the responsibility lies in the hands of stage manager Martin Reichert. Other students in their respective fields of lighting, sound, and projection are Leon Grim, Ross Wademan, Terry DeBold, and Henry Koch. There are several other boys who are stage hands and who will, in future years, serve as the learned specialists.

Without the efforts of these boys no school assembly or theatrical production could be a complete success. Since this particular group usually fails to receive recognition, we are happy to be able to remind you of the indispensable Stage Crew.

Every morning at 8:20.

Service Force

The Service Force at Wyomissing High School is an integral part of the proper maintenance of necessary school activities. Largely composed of volunteer students, this one group comprises the cafeteria crew, P.A. announcers, the gym crew, and the bike room attendants.

The cafeteria crew did much to reduce the rush of students into the lunch room. Because of the increase in the number of pupils, the monitors had a more demanding job than in previous years and should be commended for their service.

The public address announcers, chosen last year, did much to improve the P.A. system. Through a questionnaire, suggestions were made and improvements in the delivering of announcements were effected.

When the basketball season came, the gym crew was on hand to supervise the crowds in the gym during the home games.

The bike room attendants were in charge of maintaining order in the bike room when the students brought their bicycles to school.

Inter-Club

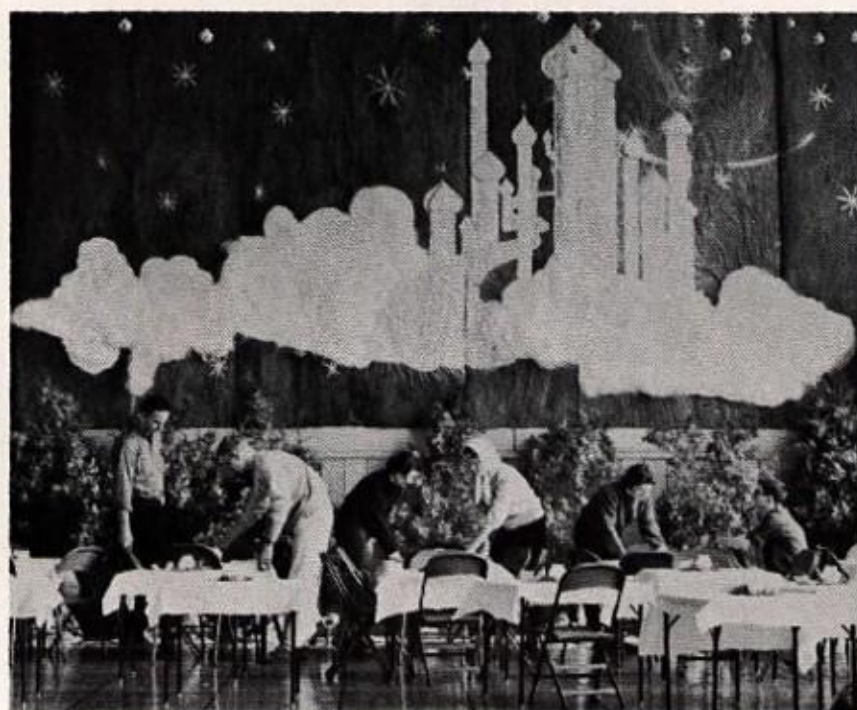

"La Neige Enchantee" was the theme for the thirty-first annual Inter-Club Dance held by the Hi-Y-Teens on November 22 in the grade school recreation room. The center of attraction was an impressive mural of a majestic ice castle surrounded by numerous radiant stars and fluffy pink clouds. Soft blue and green lights flooded more than twenty snow-feathered trees which added to the setting of this superimposed wonderland.

This highlight of the fall social season was organized by a committee consisting of Gary Wilkinson, Maureen Cronan, Dave Kozloff, Linda Lerch, Marty Reichert, Jerry Bingaman, Wally Hangen, Mary Trexler, Ross Wademan, Val Bickelhaupt, Henry Koch, Judy Evans, Marty Jones, and Joanie Jamison.

Junior-Senior Prom

As the highlight of the school social activities, the Junior-Senior Prom was anticipated by the two classes. The prom committee planned the event for June 5 at the Bowers Country Club. Jack Heath's Orchestra was engaged to provide the musical background for the evening.

Because the entire project was undertaken by the junior class, the committee, selected by the class officers and advisors, was composed of juniors. The members were: William Laubach, Sheila Finn, Steve Hartranft, Judy Evans, Martha Gartner, Jack Meharg, Marcia Coblentz, Jean Beaver, Ross Wademan, Vance Forepaugh, and Henry Koch.

Band

Giving forth its fast marches or modern jazz, the school band can frequently be heard playing; sometimes the sound comes from the cafeteria and at other times, the auditorium. The band rehearses many different kinds of music including marches, jazz, and popular and semi-classical tunes, under the direction of its conductor, Mr. Emery.

The remaining portion of the band can frequently be seen at the home football games. It also plays for every combined assembly and for pep rallies held before football and basketball contests.

Not to be forgotten as part of the band are the majorettes. These girls come to practices just as faithfully as those members who carry the instruments. The majorettes are Pat Handwerk, Vivian Brace, and Marilyn Rea.

Some of this group form the dance band, "The Sunset Serenaders". This ensemble is headed by Ross Wademan and consists of band and non-band members.

As an integral part of school activities, the band serves its functions well and promotes enthusiasm in school spirit.

Orchestra

Under the direction of Mr. Robert Emery, the orchestra at Wyomissing High School has developed into a highly coordinated group over the past years. This year was no exception as the orchestra could call on the abilities of many talented students.

Throughout the term, the orchestra played at combined assemblies and other school affairs.

Many of the students in orchestra gained invaluable experience from participating in the many rehearsals which took place at 7:30 on week-day mornings. Margaret Ross and John Andrews, violinists, took part in district orchestra and some of the others were active in the dance band. Quite a few of the members performed in county orchestra at Governor Mifflin in December.

Although the orchestra was small in number, it was large in willingness and ability. Because of the support of the members and the director, the school orchestra proved to be a well-coordinated ensemble from which came the melodious strains of musical harmony.

Library Club

OFFICERS—C. Libby, S. Glosser, M. Glosser, J. Schatz.

The Library Club, one of the school's service organizations, is comprised of girls from ninth through twelfth grades. They assist with library procedures and in return gain a broader knowledge of how the library operates. Under the direction of Mrs. Heffner, the girls do such jobs as checking in and out books, repairing old ones, and filing new ones.

Throughout the year many events occur in which the Library Club participates. Such events include assisting in the Book Fair and promoting Book Week with displays and posters. Club meetings are held once a month for the purpose of discussing coming events. The officers this year are: Caryl Libby, president; Susie Glosser, vice-president; and Martha Glosser, secretary-treasurer. Class representatives on the cabinet are Connie Bicklehaupt, Anne Scully, Barbara Acheson, and Martha Hylton. Barbara Sheidy was president of the larger Teen-Age Library Association.

Glee Club

Open to every senior high student who is interested in singing, the chorus meets twice a week to prepare for several musical programs and to entertain with its music.

Chorus first performs at the Christmas pageant forming the traditional candlelight processional and recessional. In the spring of the year it renders an evening musical program and again it adds gaiety to the Music Week Assembly.

Practicing under the guidance of Mr. Emery, the director, and John McConaghy, accompanist, the members sing both secular and religious pieces in accordance with the season of the year.

Several members of the Glee Club were chosen to represent Wyomissing at the County Music Festival which included a one hundred seventy-five voice chorus held on December 13, 1958, at Governor Mifflin. In the District Chorus held at Emmaus, Martha Glosser represented our school.

Future Teachers of America

The Future Teachers of America Club was organized to help prospective teachers with the teaching profession. Open to all junior and senior students, the club attempts to fulfill this objective by allowing members to assist teachers in both grade and high school classes.

At the organization meeting, under the leadership of Miss Brunner, the sponsor, the club elected the following officers: president, Ann Homer; vice-president, Susie Lerch; and secretary-treasurer, Martha Hylton.

The officers planned meetings which consisted of films, speakers, or discussions to give the members better ideas of school room teaching and to prepare them for their own teaching experiences. Throughout the year the members helped teachers in instructing the first grade. They also spent one morning observing classes in the grade school.

Each member was assigned to a high school teacher so that she could substitute for the instructor when he had to be absent for one or two periods of the day.

Future Nurses Club

Assembly line in action.

The Future Nurses Club was organized for all the senior high students who are interested in nursing as a profession to give them general insight and to acquaint them with the different types of schools of nursing.

With its advisor, Mrs. Knappenberger, the club met on the last Wednesday of each month to discuss various phases of nursing, its history, and to learn about some nursing duties. A service project of wrapping dressings for a hospital was part of club work. Assisting Mrs. Knappenberger with eye examinations in the grade school gave the members some insight into school nursing while speakers provided information in other fields. Highlights of the year were the selection of the Future Nurses Club Pin and a field trip to the Reading Hospital.

Responsible for the activities were Anita Schmehl, president; Susie Bennethum, vice-president; and Carroll Conner, secretary-treasurer.

P. Handwerk, S. Kline, A. Homer, C. Rea, S. Saylor, A. Knox, M. Glosser, K. Templin, M. Hylton, M. Trexler, J. Williamson, J. Sisk, P. Kershner, E. Elsberg, Mrs. Knipe, P. Penington.

French Club

Dear to the hearts of a few seniors has been the French Club, Les Femmes Fatales, where, beyond the realm of grammar and daily drill chores, the members learned to love the French language through conversation, food specialties and intimate, friendly gatherings among the homes of the members.

Under the guidance of Professeur Madame Knipe, the officers, Pam Kershner, la presidente; Erica Elsberg, la vice-presidente; Penny Penington, la secretaire; and Judy Williamson, la tresoriere, arranged programs for the year.

The activities opened with a meeting at Penny Penington's house where the girls played French games and enjoyed a French dessert. Next on the agenda was a progressive dinner with emphasis on the French cuisine. At Christmas time the gaiety of Joyeux Noel was augmented by a party at which gifts were exchanged. Spring-time found the group delving into the mysteries of a treasure hunt in which all the messages were explained in French.

Spanish Club

"You take care of this."

Rompe cabezas, pinatas, Jose Greco, y pasteles cumpleaños are a few attractions in the Spanish Club program this year. This social function of the second year Spanish class meets once a month with the express purpose of increasing its knowledge of the language and culture of our southern neighbors. Each member gains much from the meetings, but the process is definitely fun.

Diana Sternbergh conducts each meeting in Spanish and Juan Andrews reads the minutes in Espanol, as that is the only language permissible. Jorge Wilkinson, vice-president, and Roberto Heron, treasurer, complete the cabinet. Mrs. Knipe, the advisor, is always full of useful and interesting suggestions.

There is no doubt that the club is enriching our understanding of the Spanish-speaking peoples of the world.

Monitors

"Let's go!"

The fifth and sixth period monitors at Wyomissing High, under the supervision of Mr. H. Y. Brubaker, are composed of the junior and senior boys. It is their duty to coordinate the lunch line and eliminate confusion during the cafeteria periods.

The junior boys, headed by John Coburn, helped to alleviate the rush to the lunch room during the fifth period while the senior boys, headed by Dave Kozloff, took on the responsibility during the sixth period.

The ninth, tenth, and some of the eleventh grade boys also were campus and cafeteria monitors. Supervised by Miss Thelma Brunner, these students performed a valuable service in maintaining the beauty of the school and its lawn.

Often looked upon by others as particularly easy, the duties of the hall, campus, and cafeteria monitors actually require perseverance and cooperation among the student members.

Fire Platoon

The Fire Platoon, composed of the junior and senior boys, performs a vital service to the safety of our school. Under the supervision of Mr. Sheetz, these students are responsible for maintaining proper order in the evacuation of the school during an emergency.

In October, when this year's Fire Platoon was formally organized, the school took part in a county-wide Civil Defense drill. Along with other students, the members of the platoon assisted the Civil Defense workers in taking proper care of the "victims".

The Fire Platoon also conducted fire drills throughout the year to prepare students for evacuation and to eliminate any problems of congestion which might arise.

Each boy on the squad had a special fire station. In this manner, no section of the school would be unprotected in the event of a fire.

Puppet Club

Meeting before and after school every Wednesday, the Puppet Club, under the direction of Mrs. Kains, once more became a functioning high school organization after three years of inactivity.

Early in the year, when the club met for the first time, election of officers was the order of business. Elected as co-managers were Janet Scholes and Sheila Finn. Joe Homsher was elected as secretary-treasurer and Marty Cafurello was chosen as stage manager.

In the spring, the Puppet Club presented an assembly for the junior high. Their program featured a fairy tale comedy entitled Three Wishes.

As a division of the American Red Cross, the Junior Red Cross strove to learn the value of service. The club consisted of eighth grade girls who met periodically to plan its program. This was done under the guidance of Mrs. Schrack, advisor, and the officers: Judy Hawman, president; Susie Mohn, vice-president; Emily Gross, secretary; and Gail Zimmerman, treasurer.

The main project for the year was an afghan for a needy family. To do this each member knitted several square patches of different colors. The group put them together.

By helping people less fortunate than they, the club was also given its first opportunity to prove its leadership ability.

Junior Hi-Y

FIRST ROW—J. Bowman, J. Rohrer, G. Haines. SECOND ROW—M. Peters, W. Breitingner, J. Homsher, M. Westkott.

Established on the platform of "Clean speech, clean sportsmanship, clean scholarship, and clean living", the Wyomissing Junior Hi-Y, advised by Mr. Weik, this year developed an ambitious and active program that closely paralleled that of its older brother, the Hi-Y.

Elected president at the first meeting was Mike Peters. Joe Homsher was chosen as vice-president, and John Rohrer was elected secretary. Micky Westkott was chosen chaplain and Bill Breitingner was elected treasurer.

Planned activities of the club included a hockey game at the Hershey Arena, a trip to the Franklin and Marshall planetarium and observatory, camping at Pine Grove, and a "doggie roast" to conclude the year.

Blue Triangle

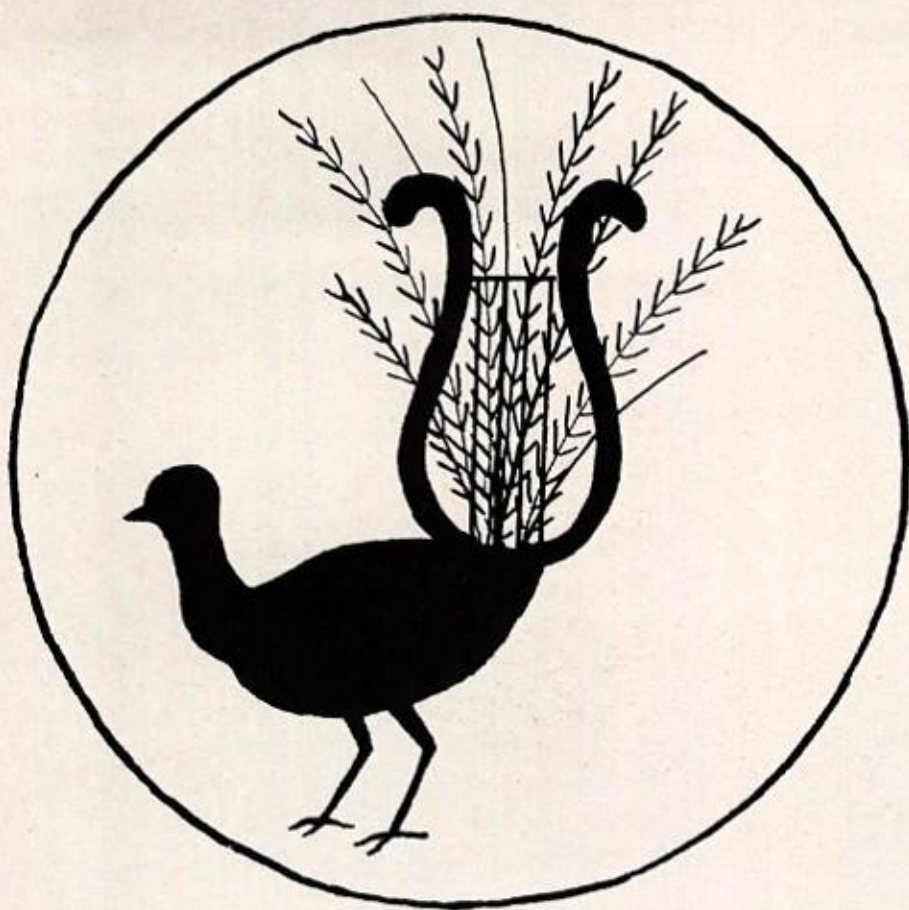

As one of the more active organizations in junior high, the Blue Triangle is composed of girls from seventh to ninth grades. Under the guidance of Mrs. Florence Schrack, the members strive to apply their ideas as a service club.

The highlights of the year included the "Greenie Show" in October, a good-grooming program in December, the Mother-Daughter Social in April, and the annual banquet and election of officers in May. In February the Blue Triangle with the Y-Teens sponsored the W. P. A. Dance to celebrate Saint Valentine's Day.

The 1958-59 cabinet was composed of Lynne Putnam, president; Betsy Jones, vice-president; Connie Quereau, secretary; and Susan Kauffman, treasurer.

Football

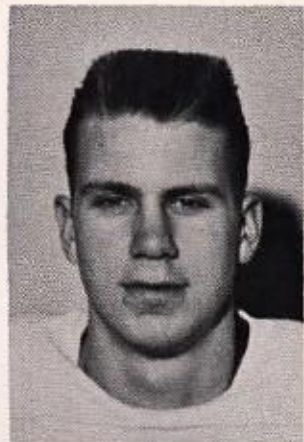

During the final sweltering weeks of August, Varsity hopefuls, including five regulars from the once defeated '57 team, strove ardently to secure a starting position. Together with rigorous training and practice scrimmages with Wilson, Reading High Jayvees, and Cocalico Union, it became evident that Wyomissing was not to be disregarded in the newly formed Inter-County League.

Optimism was at its apogee as the Warriors managed a 14-13 victory over Collegeville, the only team to defeat Wyomissing in '57. The optimistic supporters were not to be disappointed, for the team, co-captained by Jeff Keeler and Phil Brumbach, compiled a 7-1 log while attaining one-third of the I-C League crown. The Warriors not only earned a fine record but also set a one-game school record of 60 points and missed by only twelve points a County season record set in 1924.

Varsity Basketball

Benefiting from the experience of only three holdovers from last year's Divisional championship team, Mr. Reitz augmented his squad with a variety of personnel. Doing most of the rebounding and accomplishing the inside work were: Gary Wilkinson, Phil Brumbach, Stan Huyett, John Coburn, and Bill Laubach. Jeff Keeler, Jeff Knapp, Cary Bickel, Tom Heck, Steve Hartranft, and Jim Klein maintained the scoring punch.

The Warriors, after going 1-1 in the exhibition bouts, found competition at a premium as they absorbed a defeat by West Reading, 67-50 in the first league fracas. This, however, failed to circumvent the Blue and White's courage as the quintet went on to a 13 and 3 record, losing to West Reading twice and Conrad Weiser once, and managed, on the side, a single game school record of 94 points.

Junior Varsity Basketball

Roger scores.

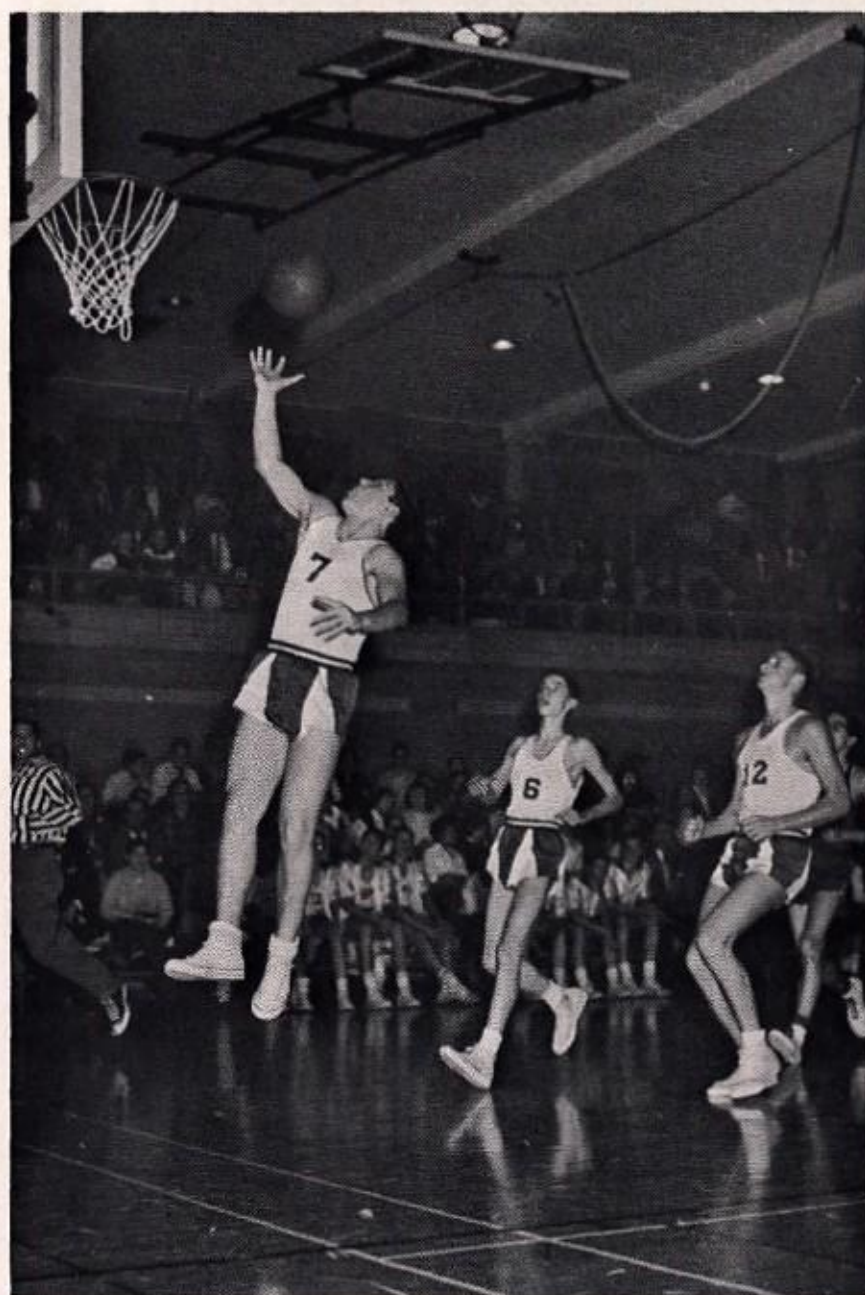

For the second successive season, Mr. Sheetz's junior Warriors proved themselves champions in Berks County circles. These capable athletes captured both the Divisional championship and the County title.

Under the able leadership of captain Dave Purselle, the team was defeated only three times in division melee and earned an overall 18-5 record. Completing the big five were: Roger Rosenberger, Ron Bauer, Bill Shanfelder, and Mike Peters while a bench-full of competent reserves played a significant part in the team's success.

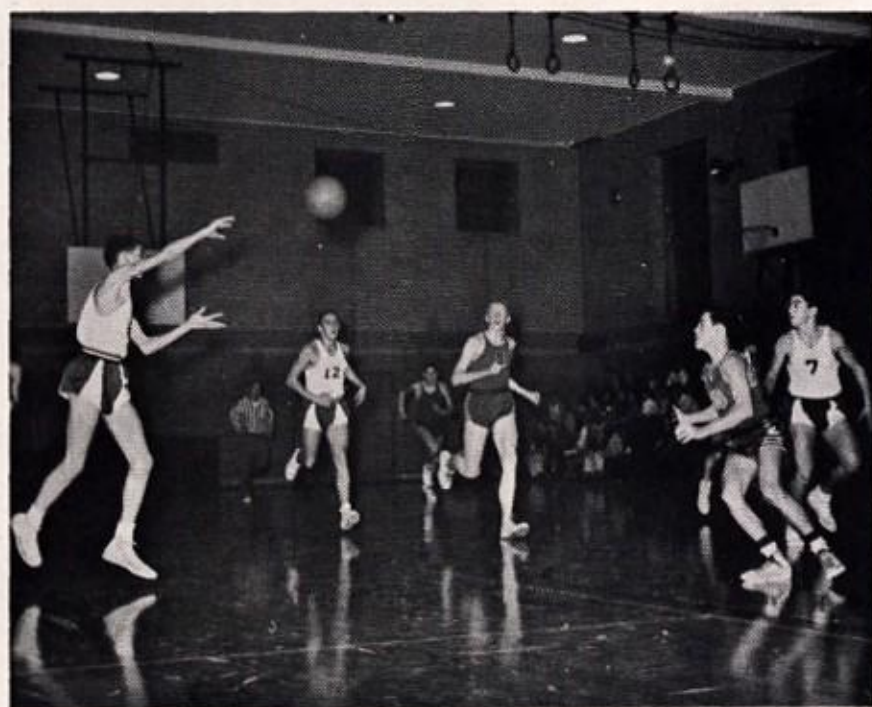

After crushing every opponent in the first half of conference play, the high-flying Warriors were dealt their first taste of defeat by Conrad Weiser. Scheduled for a do-or-die match with Hamburg for the Western Division title, the J.V.'s proved victorious and went on to retire the Conference crown from Exeter, 39-34, to conclude a most enviable season.

Baseball

Hardly had his duties on the hardwoods been completed when Mr. Reitz, Varsity baseball coach, began to assemble his 1959 squad. Following several days of practice in the gym for the batteries, the team members adjourned to the A-field. Here, on the diamond, skills in pitching, fielding, hitting, and catching were practiced, improved, and perfected.

Exhibition games and league play saw the spirit and ability of the outfit result in a general trend of improvement for the Warrior batters. Jim Klein, doubling up with Bill Acheson at third, Bob Hahn, and Paul Burns, outfielder, supplied the team with competent pitching arms. Other outfield positions were filled by Harold Bunnell, Martin Cafurello, and Bill Shanfelder. Senior Jeff Knapp was the lone man behind the plate. Ron Bauer and Bob Mead, and Mike Peters and John Andrews, first and second basemen respectively, divided infield duties with shortstops Fred Borchers and Bob Andrews.

Track

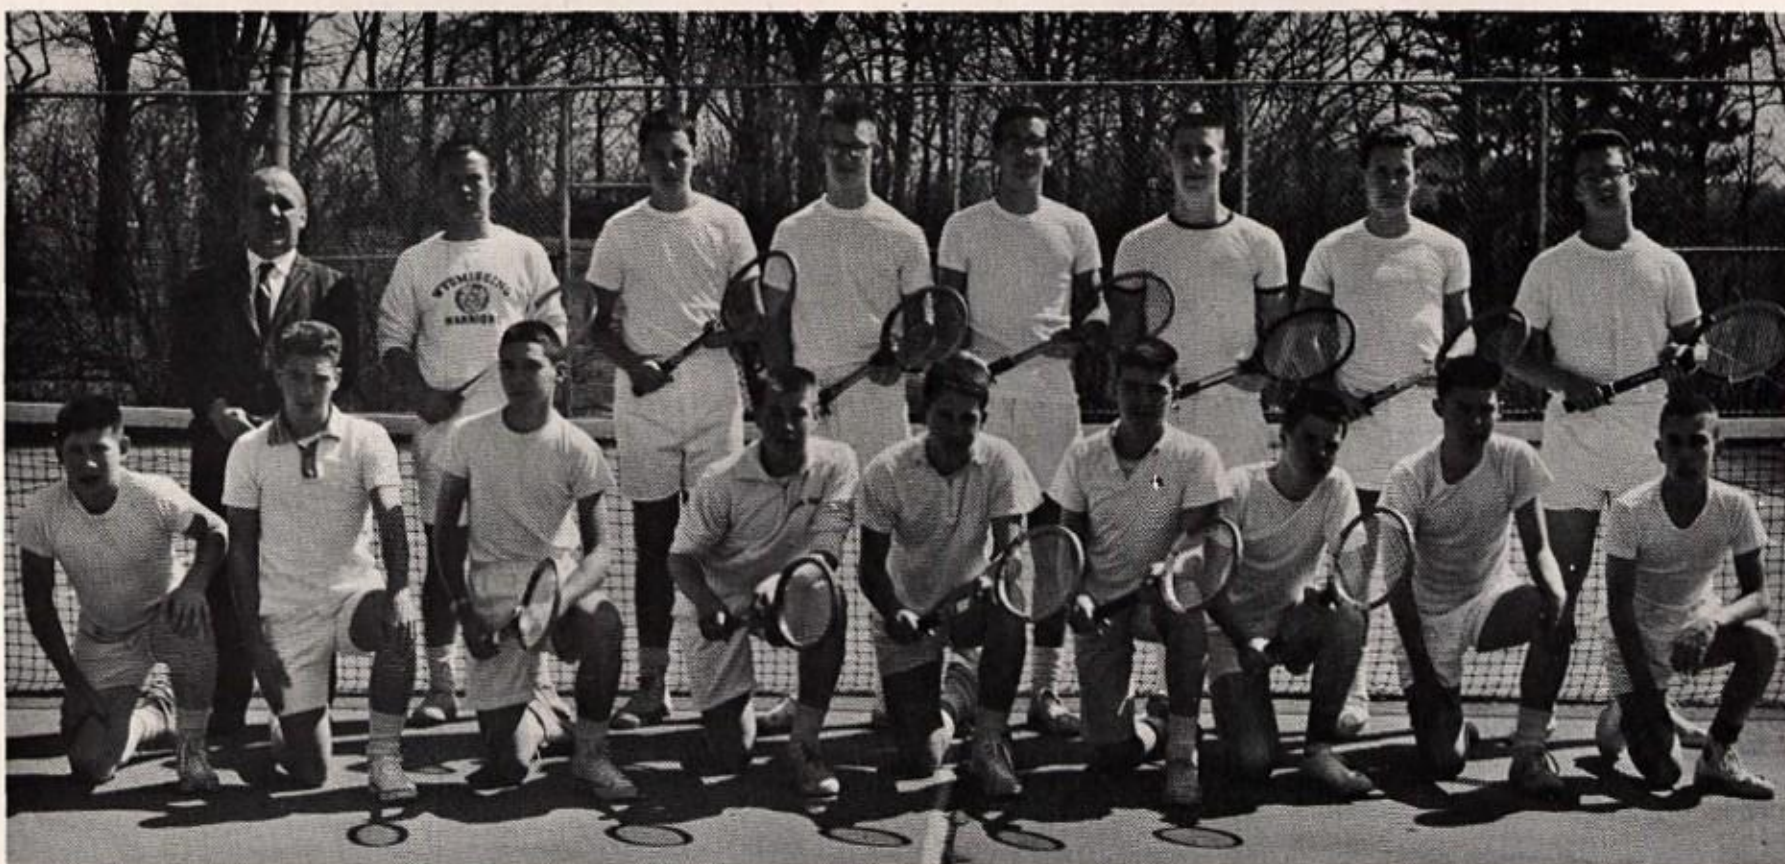

Spring vacation witnessed the cinders burning and the discus whirling as aspirants for the track team conditioned themselves in anticipation of a prosperous season. Team trainer, Mr. DeWitt, confronted with a lack of distance runners, was well outfitted with participants in field events and in sprints. Dick Troy, a four-year man, exercised his main efforts in the 100, 220, and 440 yard dashes. Second year members, Phil Brumbach, shot putter, and javelin thrower, John Wal-born, shared the discus honors. Senior Jim Von Neida aided the team by hurdling. Vaulters, Rick Rothenberger and Cary Bickel, and hurler, C. T. Miller, augmented the large troupe. Sophomores John Blodgett, Ted Jones, and Dave Fahrenholt offered promise for future years.

Dual meets, such as the initial one with Cocalico Union April 3, and joint-school competition, constituted this year's card, which featured a heavier schedule than previous seasons.

Tennis

Hoping again to capture the Berks County tennis crown, fifteen ambitious "racketeers" met with Mr. Gebensleben in late March to organize the squad. In pre-season play, Wyomissing's first man, Jeff Keeler, and fifth ranked player, Bill Breitingner, successfully competed in the District III PIAA Tennis Tournament at Lancaster; the former was runnerup in the district finals. Martin Reichert, Henry Koch, and William Laubach filled the other first five berths in addition to reserves Jack Meharg, Bob Keeler, and Steve Hartranft. Garden Spot at New Holland inaugurated the twenty match roster, which featured the Berks County Championship at Wyomissing, and the District III and State PIAA tennis finals.

By urging the teams on to victory, Wyomissing High's cheerleaders were kept busy during the football and basketball seasons. The introducing of new cheers and reviewing of old ones, and the fomenting of good school spirit constituted the format of pep rallies, a major responsibility of the squad. For football games they decorated the goal posts and bleachers in the colors of the rivaling schools.

Caryl Libby, Jean Beaver, Martha Gartner, Dotsy Parker, and Mary Westkott formed the varsity squad under Captain Sandra Shanfelder. The junior varsity boosters were: Captain Lynne Putnam, Susan Kauffman, Betsy Jones, and Karen Gartner. Miss Doris Ganter served as faculty advisor for the groups.

Coaches

Again this year, Wyomissing's scholastic athletic teams benefited from the training and advice of a fine complement of coaches. Guiding the Warriors to another outstanding performance in the '58 football campaign was Mr. Gebensleben, head coach. Assisting Mr. G. in the capacity of line coach was Mr. Weik, a newcomer to the coaching staff. The varsity basketball team reflected the abilities of Mr. Reitz's coaching by also presenting a fine accounting of themselves. The J.V.'s also proved the worth of a fine tutor, Mr. Sheetz, by enjoying not only a Division Championship but also the County Championship. Directing the rapidly progressing track team to several places in county meets this year was Mr. DeWitt. Mr. Reitz, switching in the spring to baseball, developed the skills of pitching, fielding, and batting. Rounding out the athletic program for the 1958-59 season was the ever popular sport, tennis. Mr. G.'s "racketeers" made a fine showing.

Managers

The art of managing is a task essential to all athletic teams. The qualified manager, whose sphere of influence encompasses many diversified and strenuous duties, is a composite of medical practitioner, idealist, and team servant. With a keen knowledge for athletic equipment and medical supplies, he incessantly performs his tasks with that agreeable attitude found only in a manager. Under his control and close scrutiny are: the practice uniforms, the locker room maintenance, the game equipment, the officials' pay, and that bottomless pit of one inch tape. He carefully regulates the flow of salt tablets, extra cleats, orange quarters, chewing gum, and moist towels, all for the benefit of his beloved team. Faithfully adhering to the endless desires of the players, he leads a life of obscurity and receives no recognition as such. Yet, when the team wins the "big one", who is the first to be thrown, fully clothed, into the shower? The omnipresent manager!

Senior Girls' Athletic Association

CABINET—E. Hawman, S. Shanfelder, N. Baker, M. Glosser.

Directed by Miss Doris Ganter, the Senior Girls' Athletic Association provided for senior high girls afternoons of intramural sports. The cabinet this season consisted of: Sandra Shanfelder, president; Martha Glosser, vice-president; Nancy Baker, secretary-treasurer; and Betsy Hawman, clerk of records.

The purpose of the club is not only to create an interest and further skills in divers sports but also to promote good sportsmanship. By participating, one gains a working knowledge of many competitive sports and thus she is able to contribute her acquired skills toward the success of the game. Hockey initiated the intramural games in the fall, followed by bowling, basketball, and volleyball, which offered indoor recreation. Tennis, archery, softball, and track rounded out the year.

Girls' Athletics

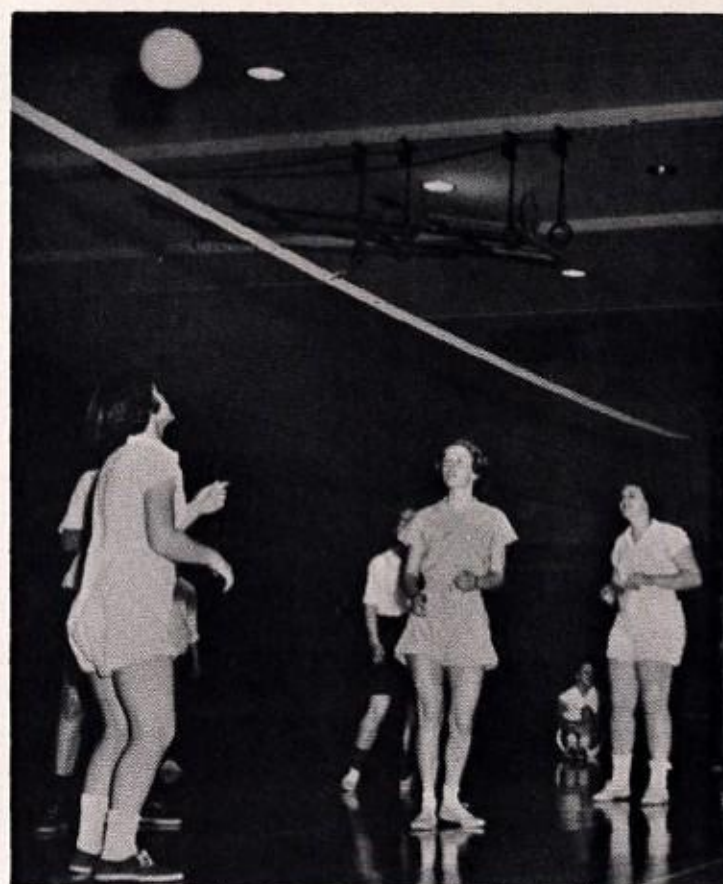

As a division of Girls' Athletic Association, girls' sports, now in its third year, offers the feminine members of Wyomissing an opportunity to exhibit their athletic abilities by providing play days with county schools.

This fall hockey was introduced as an additional sport. Fleetwood females proved fatal for the senior girls, edging them 2-0. However, the juniors trounced their opponents 2-1. In early spring Wilson and Muhlenberg participated in a round-robin volleyball competition on the Warriors' court.

Junior Girls' Athletic Association

The purpose of Junior Girls' Athletic Association, similar to its senior high counterpart, is to provide an outlet for the girls' vigor and to teach good sportsmanship. Intramural competition, held bi-weekly, included hockey, basketball, volleyball, softball, and tennis, arranged by the cabinet and managers. Assisting at each game were referees, timers and scorers, volunteers from the club who had received special training in the fundamentals of the game. As a special service the Junior G.A.A. sold white jackets and beige blazers with the school insignia optional.

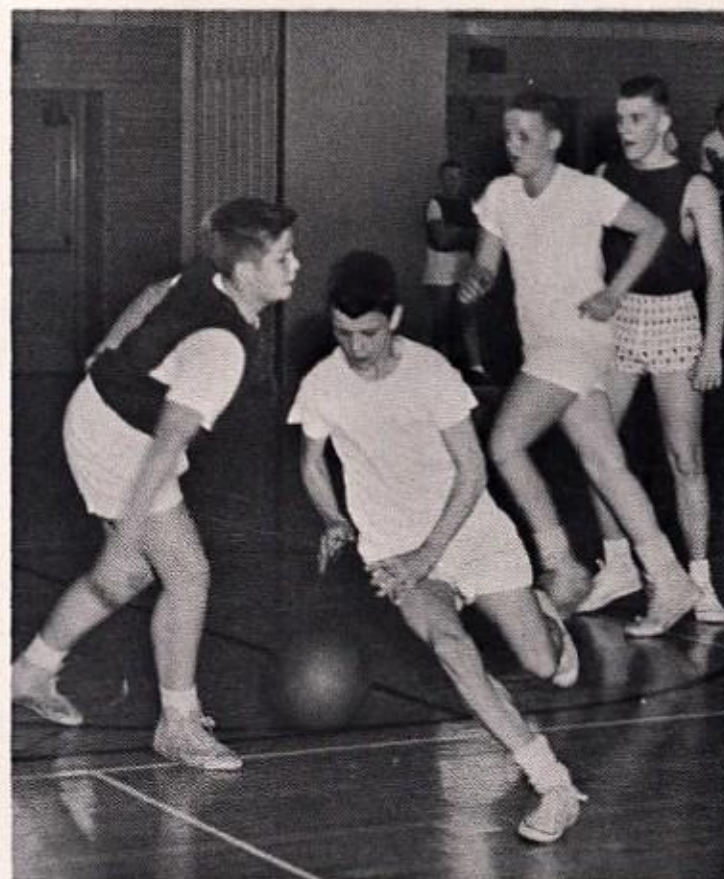

The cabinet posts were filled by: Carol Lauria, president; Nancy Wademan, vice-president; Emmy Lou Gaul, secretary-treasurer; and Connie Bickelhaupt, clerk of records. Miss Ganter supervised the well-rounded program of sports.

Boys' Intramurals

Continuing in its upward trend of popularity, the intramural program endeavors to extend to each boy an opportunity to initiate and further the development of his skills in all fields of athletics.

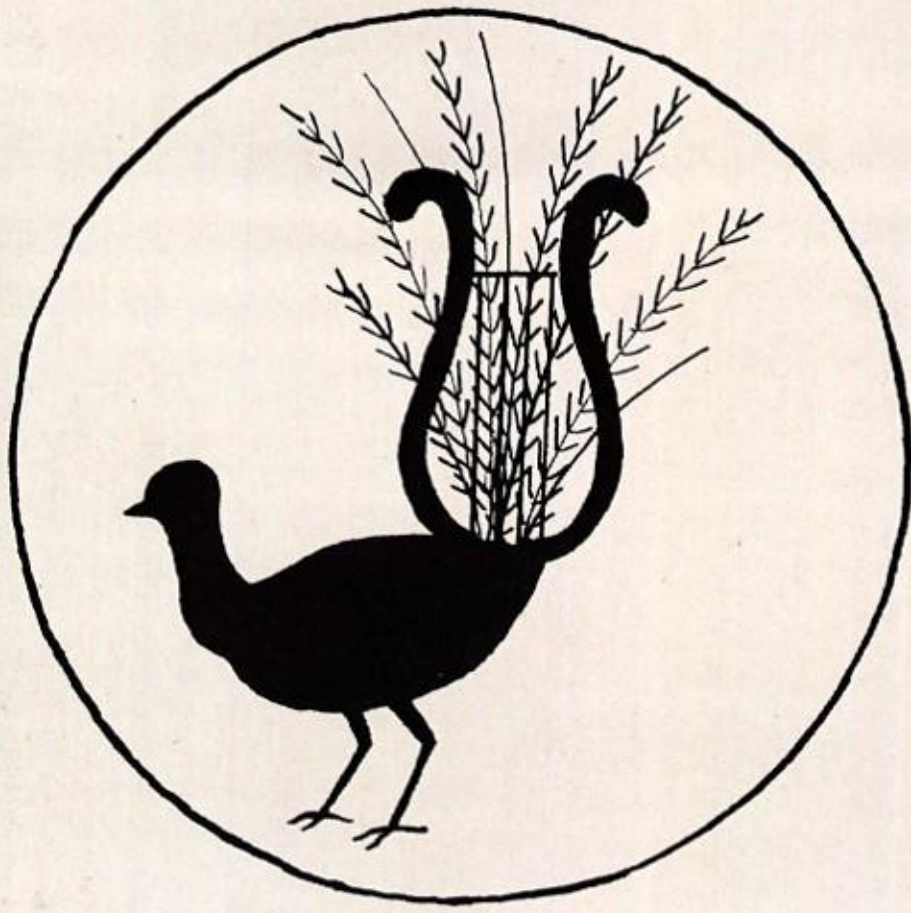

Through this program, the individual not only attains a more complete understanding of the game but also realizes such benefits as the ability to think clearly, the art of self-control, and the value of teamwork. With Mr. Allison at the helm of this now flourishing activity, it will continue to be an asset to the school program.

Freshman Class

Last September, the ninth grade class came back to school with unusual pep and anticipation for the following year. Their curiosity was caused by the Outdoor Education Program. After returning from their week at Conrad Weiser, the Freshmen participated in the school's extracurricular activities and elected Susie Kauffman, Lynne Putnam, John Rohrer, and Glen Haines to serve in Co-operative.

Junior G.A.A. went into action with the election of Carol Lauria to the presidency. Connie Bickelhaupt became the clerk of records. Blue Triangle was headed by Lynne Putnam, president, and Susie Kauffman, treasurer. Lynne Putnam and Susie Kauffman contributed enthusiasm and cheers to the interscholastic sports as cheerleaders.

Junior Hi-Y was led by Mike Peters, president; John Rohrer, secretary; Mickey Westkott, chaplain; and Glen Haines, representative. The male section of the class was also active in football, basketball, track, and baseball.

A class party ended the Freshman year and the students looked forward to their first year in the senior high.

Sophomore Class

The Sophomores will long be remembered for their enthusiastic spirit and pure enjoyment of the school term.

To begin the year, Ron Adams was elected class president; Penny Pettis, vice-president; Ron Bauer, treasurer; and Joanie Jamison, secretary. Selected as Co-operative representatives were Mary Bell DeLong, Tina Schmidt, Dave Fahrenholt, and Roger Rosenberger. Serving the Y-Teen cabinet were Susie Schadt and Mary Westkott. The class was well represented in both football and basketball; Jim Klein was advanced to the Varsity team. Backed by a mass of Sophomore girls, Dotsie Parker and Mary Westkott contributed their talents to the cheerleading squad.

The class of '61 made such a fetish of parties that one was held almost every Friday and Saturday night. The treasury was advanced by proceeds of a student bus to the Jenkintown football game in October and a school dance in April. February found the class members proudly displaying shining class rings.

The final class party in June concluded the school year and the members were graduated from the "Silly Sophomores" to the "Jolly Juniors".

Junior Class

This year, another enthusiastic group returned to Wyomissing High School to capture the title of the "Jolly Juniors".

Early in September, the class of 1960 accepted the many responsibilities and spread its influence through many school organizations. In the Co-operative, Fred Borchers became the vice-president, while Steve Hartranft, Martha Gartner, Bill Laubach, and Sandy Heisler represented their class. Ross Wademan was the class president; Henry Koch, vice-president; Jack Meharg, treasurer; Kathy Coyle, secretary; and Martha Gartner, historian.

Members of the class of 1960 offered their services as P.A. announcers, cafeteria workers, and as staff members for the school newspaper. They participated in basketball, track, tennis, and baseball. Urging their teams were the cheerleaders, Jean Beaver and Martha Gartner.

During the basketball season this class operated the candy stand at home games and in January it held a Saturday night dance at school.

Drawing the school term to a close for the Juniors were a class party and the Junior-Senior Prom. Their gay memories as underclassmen would be remembered as they assumed the role of "Serious Seniors".

Class History

Back in 1946 the diary of this class was begun. That year was highlighted by a trip to Lutz's with Miss Guenther.

In first grade we progressed a little more along the line of education when we began to read Puff and Jane and to play games such as Pom-pom-poly-o.

In second grade we reached the realms of higher finance, when we were taught how to count money.

We wrote a little more in the pages of our history in third grade by adding the multiplication tables to our list of accomplished arts. Hop-a-long Cassidy also became the idol of the boys.

By fourth grade most of us were Cub Scouts or Brownies and we could be seen playing Civil War games at lunch time.

In fifth grade the girls would play soccer with the boys at recess and all of us can remember our dancing classes.

Then, sixth grade arrived. We had reached the half-way point in our diary and, as the "big wheels" of the school, we participated in the annual Halloween festivities at the high school.

As we entered seventh grade, our class experienced a letdown from the supremacy of grade school. Some of us braved

Heave Ho!

Class History

Inter-Club for the first time, and in math class Miss Brunner taught us how to "follow through".

During our second year in junior high, we began to feel more at ease. Mr. Stradtman proved to us that sodium and water do not mix.

Ninth grade saw us becoming acquainted with Mrs. Kitzmiller's chewing gum bag. Some of the boys represented their school on the playing field for the first time.

Tenth grade found us in our first year of senior high. The idea of choosing a class ring was paramount and our studies were regarded with more sincerity.

We survived a flu epidemic and heavy snowstorms during our junior year, and many of us graduated from lowly pedestrians to expert drivers. The Junior-Senior Prom became a reality.

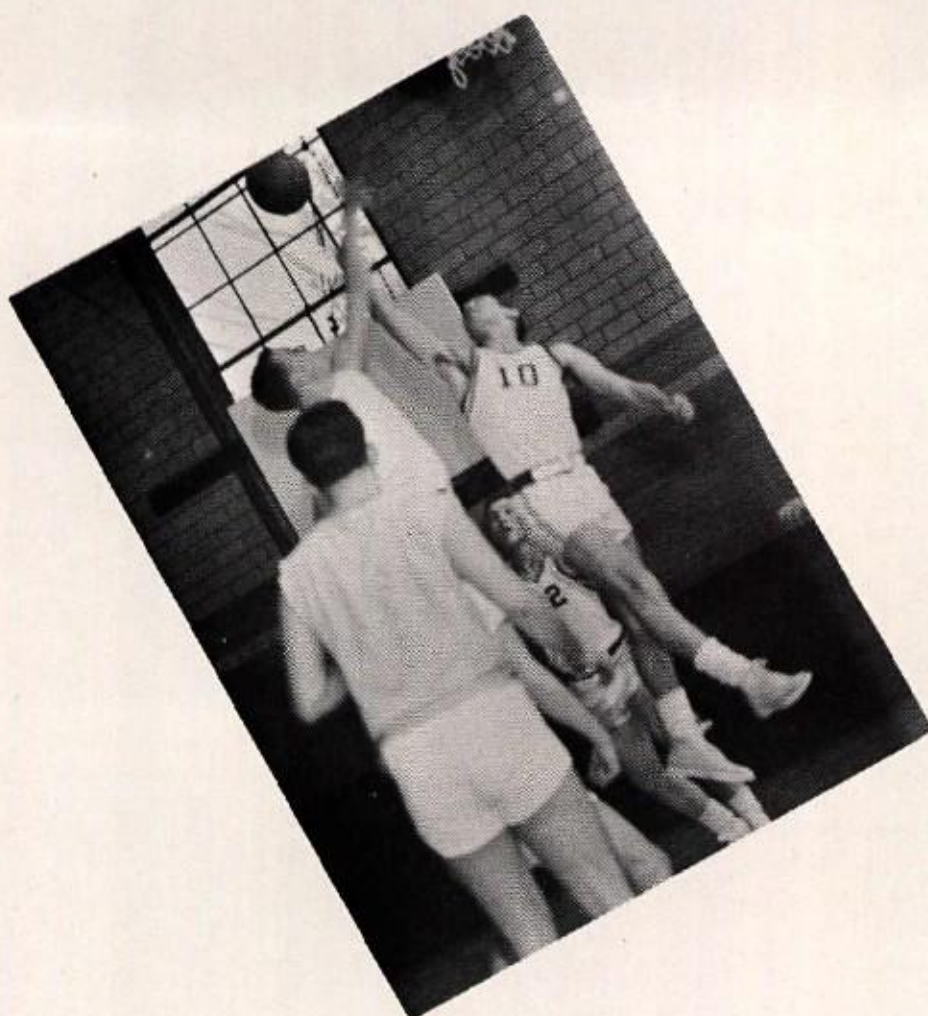

Finally, twelfth grade arrived and, as kings and queens of the school, we had to make sure that everything was running smoothly. College Boards now loomed in front of us. Our greatest expectation — to be graduated from high school — was realized and the senior year became just a stepping stone to the future.

Colophon Tribute

In ancient Greece a colophon, the printer's emblem and final inscription, was placed at the close of a book. With pride that he had accomplished the task which he had undertaken, the writer then stamped this work on the page. It was viewed as the symbol of the summit of the printer's work. In keeping with the origin and meaning of this word, we, the staff, have now done likewise to this, the 1959 edition of our yearbook, The Colophon, with confidence that our efforts were sincere and with the hope that we have been successful in depicting accurately Wyomissing High School, its pupils, its faculty, and the fruit of their labor. We now present this manuscript for its final approval.

Acknowledgments

As a score of music is conceived in the mind of a composer, likewise was this year's Colophon born in the minds of the Class of 1959. While we planned the book and its contents, there were many others to whom we are indebted for helping this score of Wyomissing High School to be published. We especially wish to thank our three advisors: Mr. Milford for his helpful guidance and proofreading, Mr. Shirk for his aid in photography, and Mr. Goodling for handling finances. Our appreciation also goes to Mr. Deininger for pictures; to Ensinger Printing Service for the printing; to National Publishing Company for the binding and covers; to the administration, faculty, and student body for their assistance; and to the patrons for their generosity.
